

King Josiah

Based on 2 Kings 22 and 23:1–25.

Josiah was eight years old when he became king of Judah. He is known for how he obeyed God's law and—like his ancestor, King David—stayed faithful to God.

During the eighteenth year of his reign, King Josiah sent officials to the temple to organize repairs and the cleaning of the temple. While working in the temple rooms, old scrolls that contained the law of God were discovered. When the high priest read the text to Josiah, the king tore his clothes in dismay (this was done as a sign of repentance).

King Josiah then called his people to assemble at the temple. He read the law from the scrolls to the people, and they all made a covenant with God to keep His commandments and follow His law. Many reforms were made, and the temple and all the land were cleansed of the idols they had been worshipping.

Josiah served God with all his heart, mind, and strength, and did his best to obey the Law of Moses.
